

*Sharing intelligence between agencies
The key factor for successful anti crime and security measures'*

Joe Connell
5th April 2011

Praemunitus Ltd
Intelligence & Risk Consultants

Introduction

- The key global security threats for 21st century
- The role of intelligence in meeting those threats
- Some challenges and barriers to intelligence sharing
- Strategic intelligence approach
- Tactical intelligence-led resolution

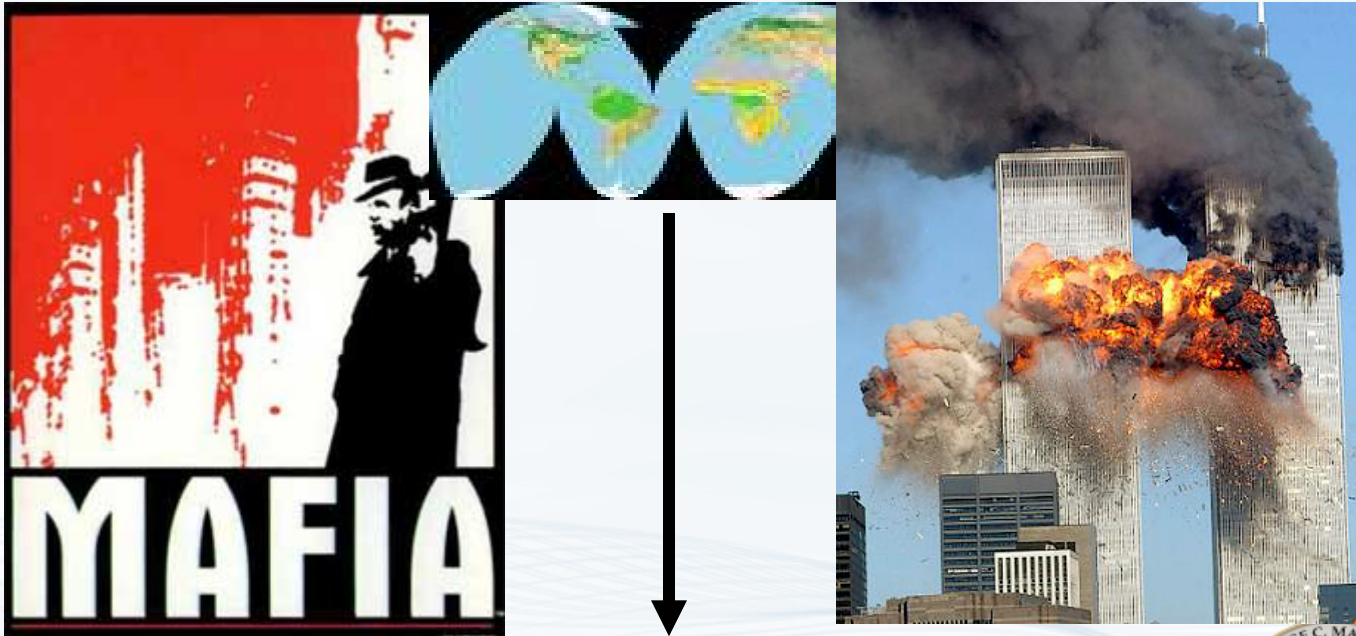

Key security issues for the 21st century

Organised Crime

Terrorism

FEAR!

Organised Crime

Driven by

- Profit
- Power
- Demand

Terrorism

Driven by

- Revenge
- Renown
- Reaction

Effects

- Social harm
- Economic damage
- Undermines Rule of Law
- International tensions

Making sense of Intelligence

..... intelligence often consists of small fragments of seemingly disparate information. Capitalising on the analytical strengths of each intelligence agency to understand the threat from different angles should be paramount.

9/11 US Joint Congressional Inquiry Report

Which intelligence Protocol?

- Need to know?
- Care to share?
- Dare to share?

- Between agencies?
- Between countries?
- Between public & private sectors?

Typical barriers to effective intelligence sharing

- Leadership /ownership
- Resources
- Implementation
- Technology
- Common professional language
- Contradictory organisational objectives
- Non complementary organisational cultures
- Varying approaches to managing risk
- Trust

Key Intelligence Assets

Knowledge

Systems

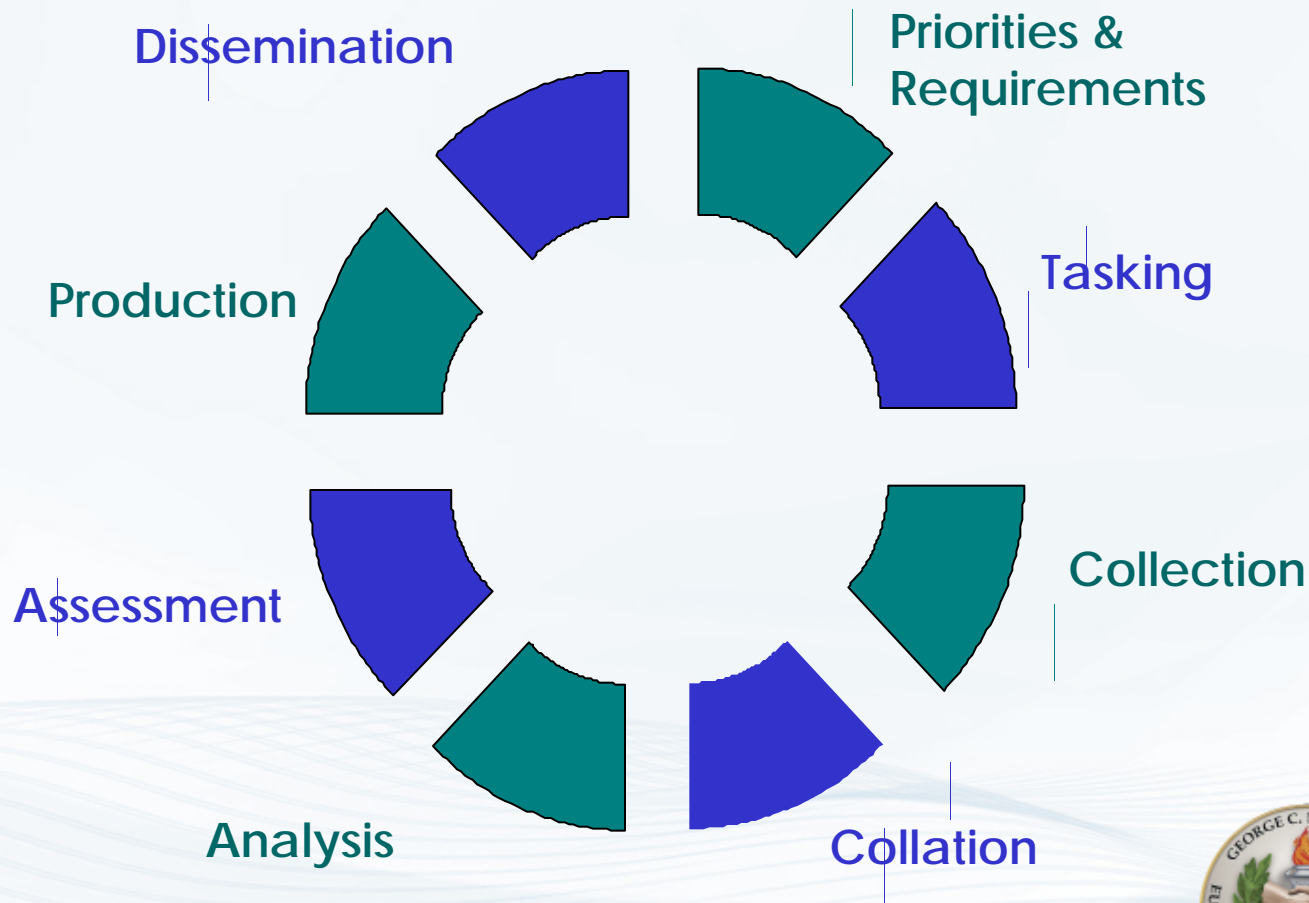

Sources

People

Strategic requirements drive 'Intelligence Cycle'

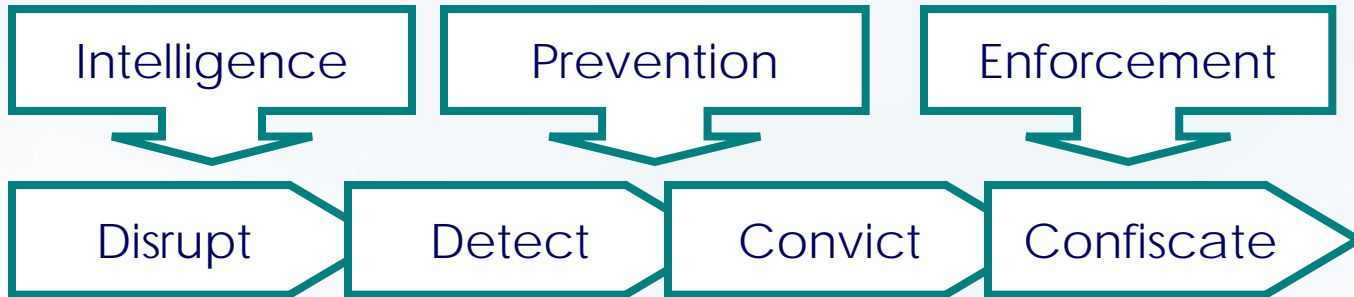

Leading to effective tactical solutions

What criminals fear
Harm to criminal business
Loss of Assets
Loss of Liberty

Any Questions?

Joe Connell
+44 (0) 7984 407315
joe.connell@pirconsultants.co.uk

Praemunitus Ltd
Intelligence & Risk Consultants

